BRAVES 2024 SEASON HIGHLIGHTS

By Jeff Lombardi Jr.

The Braves played to an 89-73 (.549) record in 2024, finishing 6.0 games behind Philadelphia in the National League East. Atlanta secured the second NL wild card seed; the 30th postseason berth in the franchise's Modern Era (since 1900) and its seventh straight.

Atlanta was the last team in the majors to qualify for the postseason, doing so with a 3-0 victory in the second game of a doubleheader, September 30 vs. New York (NL). The Braves were swept (2-0) in the Wild Card Series at San Diego.

Atlanta's seven straight playoff appearances mark the club's longest streak since its 14-year run from 1991-2005, which excludes the strike-shortened 1994 campaign. Overall, it's the fifth-longest streak of its kind in MLB history, behind Atlanta (14 straight, 1991-93*, '95-05), New York-AL (13, 1995-07), Los Angeles-NL (12, 2013-Present) and Houston (8, 2017-Present).

Here's a look back at the top plays and dazzling performances over the 162-game regular season slate – starting in the 305.

OZUNA GOES BOOM: ATLANTA'S LEADING SLUGGER JOLTS CLUB FROM THE AGONY OF DEFEAT TO THE THRILL OF VICTORY

April 14 at Miami: Marcell Ozuna was undoubtedly Atlanta's most productive offensive player – carrying the freight for much of the 2024 regular season. On April 14, "the Big Bear" once again returned to a familiar place, loanDepot Park in Miami, where he spent the first five seasons of his major league career (2013-17).

With Atlanta down to its final strike, he belted a go-ahead, three-run home run off Miami's closer, left-hander Tanner Scott.

It marked the second time the Braves have benefitted from such a blast (trailing, down to final strike) this century. In the previous instance, it was two-sport star Brian Jordan who played the role of hero, September 29, 2001 vs. New York (NL).

"This is the place [Miami] that I grew up and this is the team that gave me the opportunity as a professional baseball player," Ozuna, a Santo Domingo, DR native, said following his heroics. "This is basically my hometown. Every time I come here; I feel good."

Braves Radio play-by-play announcer, Ben Ingram, labeled Ozuna the "Mayor of Miami," on his call of the dramatic shot.

"I never lose my confidence," Ozuna said. "I always have my confidence. I never give up. If I'm [in a slump], I know it's not going to be too long. I'm going to be able to have one of those good stretches that I'm having right now. I knew it was coming because I know what I can do in baseball."

CHRIS SALE NAMED NATIONAL LEAGUE PITCHER OF THE MONTH

One of the club's primary additions of the 2023 offseason left-hander Chris Sale, has shined in his new threads. Acquired via trade with the Boston Red Sox on December 30, 2023, the southpaw signed a two-year extension, with a club option for a third year, which will keep him in Atlanta through at least 2025.

The 14-year veteran was originally a first-round selection (13th overall) by the Chicago White Sox in 2010 First-Year Player Draft. He joined Atlanta's rotation following a six-year stint with the Boston Red Sox, spanning seven seasons from 2017-23.

In May, the second full month of his inaugural season as a Brave, Sale was voted the National League Pitcher of the Month. It marked his fifth career Pitcher of the Month Award after previously winning in June and July 2018; June 2015 and May 2012, becoming one of 18 pitchers in history with at least five monthly awards and the eighth left-hander of the group. He became the first Brave to win the award since Max Fried took home the honors in September 2021.

Across five starts, Sale pitched to a perfect 5-0 record with a 0.56 ERA (2 ER/32.0 IP) while allowing 23 hits with just two walks, 45 strikeouts, a 0.78 WHIP, a .193 opponents' batting average and 12.66 strikeouts per 9.0 innings. He led the majors in ERA; ranked second among NL pitchers in strikeouts and WHIP; and tied for seventh in opponents' average.

Sale won seven consecutive starts from April 19 through May 26, marking the second-longest winning streak of his career behind a nine-game stretch to open the 2016 season. It was the longest winning streak by a Braves starter since Russ Ortiz won eight straight starts from June 18 through July 29, 2003.

On May 8, his first start against his former Boston mates, he struck out 10 batters; the second game of a four-game streak in which he struck out at least nine batters. Overall, Sale tallied at least eight strikeouts in all five of his starts during the month, becoming the third Braves starter in the Atlanta-era (since 1966) with at least 45 strikeouts in May, joining Spencer Strider, who struck out 57 batters in May 2023, and Hall-of-Famer John Smoltz, who fanned 46 in May 1996.

Furthermore, Sale did not allow a run in three straight starts from May 8-20, tossing 20.0 consecutive scoreless innings. During the dominant stretch, he allowed 13 hits with just one walk, 28 strikeouts, two hit batters, a 0.70 WHIP and a .178 opponents' average. Through the completion of the month, he allowed two runs-or-fewer in eight of his 10 turns on the year and one run-or-fewer in six – notching at least seven punchouts in all but two of his starts.

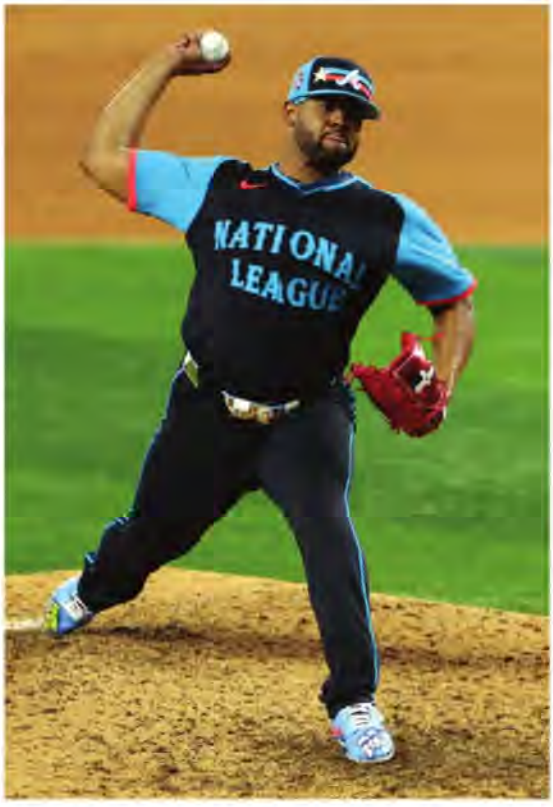
WANTED IN TEXAS: REYNALDO LÓPEZ, MAX FRIED, CHRIS SALE AND MARCELL OZUNA

ALL-STAR GAME, JULY 16 AT GLOBE LIFE FIELD: The Braves were represented both on the mound and in the batter's box for the 94th edition of baseball's Midsummer Classic. A pair of newcomers, RHP Reynaldo López and LHP Chris Sale were selected by their peers, as was the club's designated hitter, Marcell Ozuna. LHP Max Fried was later named to the roster as a replacement for Philadelphia's Ranger Suárez. Atlanta was one of four National League clubs with at least four All-Stars, along with Philadelphia (8), Los Angeles (6) and San Diego (5).

This game took place on July 16 at Globe Life Field, home of the reigning World Series champion, Texas Rangers – the first time since 1934 that the defending champions hosted the event. It also marked the second time the city of Arlington welcomed Major League Baseball's All-Star festivities, having previously done so in 1995.



REYNALDO LÓPEZ PITCHES IN THE SIXTH INNING DURING THE 94TH MLB ALL-STAR GAME AT GLOBE LIFE FIELD.

López, 30, a first-time All-Star, owned a 7-2 win-loss record at the time of his selection, while leading all major league qualifiers in ERA (1.71) and opponents' batting average with RISP (.062).

Among primary starting pitchers, López's six scoreless outings matched fellow All-Star, Detroit's Tarik Skubal, and Los Angeles' (NL) Yoshinobu Yamamoto for the most in the majors. He allowed three runs-or-fewer in each of his first 16 starts this season, one shy of Hall-of-Famer Greg Maddux (17, 1997) for the longest such streak by a starting pitcher, at any point within a single season, in the franchise's Modern Era (since 1900).

Since ERA became official in the National League in 1912, López's 1.71 ERA is the second-lowest by a Braves pitcher through their first 16 starts with the club, behind Jesse Barnes (1.29, 1915-16). In the Atlanta-era (since 1966), it's the fourth-lowest by a Braves pitcher through their first 16 starts in a season, bested only by Maddux, three times: 1.62 (1998), 1.63 (1994) and 1.64 (1995). Maddux, a four-time Cy Young Award recipient, took home the honors in both 1994 and '95.

"It's kinda crazy when you stop and think about it," López said, amid his first season as a full-time starter since 2019. "I noticed during the 2016 in the Futures Game, back then he [Ozuna] used to call me 'little rookie.' And to just skip forward to now and to think, man we're on the same team and we're going to the All-Star Game together. I mean, I just am super excited and then to be able to also go with Chris [Sale] who's just a tremendous teammate and tremendous person, I just think it's going to be a lot of fun for us."

Sale, 35, an eight-time All-Star, led the Senior Circuit in wins (11) and WHIP (0.913) at the time of his selection –ranking third in ERA (2.71), strikeouts (127) and opponents' batting average (.199). It was Sale's first time representing the National League, having done so in the American League in seven consecutive years, from 2012-16 as a member of the White Sox and 2017-18 with Boston. He has the distinction of starting the All-Star game on three occasions, getting the nod in consecutive seasons from 2016-18. He's one of 15 pitchers in the game's history to have done so, with Hall-of-Famers Lefty Gomez (1933-35) and Robin Roberts (1953-55) being the only other pitchers to start the game in three straight years.

"I think there's definitely a unique story to each individual guy. We've [Sale and Ozuna] had our problems to get back up to this spot," the left-hander said after learning of his 2024 All-Star honors – which come on the heels of five injury-plagued seasons. "[Lopez] really being a reliever over the last couple years. Correct me if I'm wrong, he's the best pitcher in the league right now. You look at what he's done from start to finish – he's the guy."

Since the inception of the All-Star Game in 1933, López and Sale became the second duo of Braves' pitchers to each make the All-Star team in their inaugural season with the club, joining Dick Ruthven and Andy Messersmith in 1976. With Fried in the mix, it marked the sixth time the club sent three starting pitchers to the

All-Star Game and the first instance since Hall-of-Famers Tom Glavine and Greg Maddux were joined by Denny Neagle in 1997 at Jacobs Field in Cleveland.

Ozuna, 33, a three-time All-Star, paced the National League in RBI (72) at the time of his selection. He ranked second in home runs (23) and total bases (184), tied for second in extra-base hits (42), third in slugging percentage (.566) and OPS (.943) eighth in on-base percentage (.377), ninth in hits (96) and 10th in batting average (.295). He was previously an All-Star in back-to-back seasons (2016-17), as a member of the Marlins.

"For me, it means a lot," Ozuna assured. "When I was in the 2016 and 2017 [All-Star Game], I was telling him [Sale], we were together, but he was in the American League and I was in the National League, so I had to face him."

In addition to his selection to the game itself, Ozuna was among eight participants in the Home Run Derby – placing sixth after hitting 16 home runs in the opening round.

Since its inception in 1985, he became the 11th different Brave to participate in the event, following Dale Murphy (1985), Ozzie Virgil (1987), David Justice (1993), Hall-of-Famers Fred McGriff (1994) and Chipper Jones, three times (1997-98, 2000), Javy López (1998), Gary Sheffield (2003), Andruw Jones (2005), Freddie Freeman (2018), and teammate Ronald Acuna Jr., twice (2019, '22).

Among the previous participants, Andruw Jones (27, 2005) is the only one to have hit more home runs prior to the All-Star break than Ozuna.

"All three of them are awesome," Braves' manager Brian Snitker said, once the All-Star roster announcement became official following a 6-0 win over the Phillies on July 7. "Other than Christmas, it's kind of one of my favorite days of the year is when I hand out All-Star invitations. It's special. Going to an All-Star Game is an honor and it's a really special thing for the guys [and] their families."

Fried, 30, woke up on Saturday before the All-Star break to a pair of missed calls from the Braves' President, Baseball Operations and General Manager Alex Anthopoulos, who informed the left-hander he'd been selected to represent the Senior Circuit.

"I was definitely surprised; I wasn't expecting it," Fried said of his second career All-Star selection, also; 2021. "It's pretty exciting."

Through the season's unofficial first half, Fried's 3.08 ERA (37 ER/108.0 IP) ranked sixth among qualified National League hurlers.

After not appearing in the 2022 All-Star Game in his hometown of Los Angeles, Fried made his All-Star debut by tossing a 1-2-3 second inning – following the game's starter, Pittsburgh's Paul Skenes. López retired the lone batter he faced, striking out Kansas City's Salvador Perez; the final out of the sixth inning. Ozuna entered as a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning and grounded out to shortstop, off Kansas City's RHP Seth Lugo. Sale did not appear in the All-Star Game after starting Atlanta's final game before the break, July 14 at San Diego.

OLSON AND D'ARNAUD GO BACK-TO-BACK, TWICE!

JULY 31 AT MILWAUKEE: Matt Olson and Travis d'Arnaud each went 2-for-4 with a pair of home runs, July 31 at Milwaukee, with all four of their home runs coming in succession. The duo went back-to-back in the fourth inning off right-hander Freddy Peralta to tie the game, and again in the eighth inning off right-hander Nick Mears to pad Atlanta's lead. Through the completion of play on July 31, Atlanta led the majors with 10 pairs of back-to-back home runs during the 2024 season.

In doing so, Olson and d'Arnaud became the third duo in Braves franchise history to hit back-to-back home runs, twice within a single-game, joining Hall-of-Famer Fred McGriff and David Justice, August 25, 1993 at San Francisco and Javy López and Andruw Jones, June 13, 1998 vs. Montreal.

"That was sweet," d'Arnaud said. "I think that was the first time [Olson and I] have gone back-to-back, and then to do it two times. I don't think I've ever seen it before. I couldn't believe it. I still can't believe it."

The pair did so once previously, in reverse order – with Olson following d'Arnaud, June 28, 2022 at Philadelphia, off right-hander Zach Wheeler.

For d'Arnaud, it marked his 10th career multi-homer game; third of the season and second over a seven-game stretch, dating to July 14 at San Diego. He's one of eight catchers, 10 instances, in franchise history with at least three multi-homer games, within a single season. Javy López (8, 2003) and Hall-of-Famer Joe Torre (5, 1966) are the only backstops with more.

Olson secured his first multi-homer game of the 2024 campaign, after doing so a major league-leading eight times in 2023.

OLSON AND d'ARNAUD BECAME THE FIRST BRAVES TEAMMATES TO HIT TWO SETS OF BACK-TO-BACK HOME RUNS IN THE SAME GAME SINCE 1998.

RAISEL IGLESIAS NAMED NL RELIEVER OF THE MONTH

"Dominant" is perhaps the best word to describe Atlanta closer Raisel Iglesias, who was honored as the National League's Reliever of the Month in August.

Braves manager Brian Snitker, who navigated his 48th season in the Braves organization in 2024, touted the right-hander as, "probably the greatest team player I've ever been around," after one of his mid-August outings.

Iglesias, a native of Isla de la Juventud, Cuba, made 11 appearances in August without allowing a run. He surrendered only two hits in the month; fewest among all pitchers with at least 10 appearances. The right-hander struck out 14 and was the lone National League relief pitcher to make 10 appearances and not walk a batter.

By all accounts of his coaches and teammates, Iglesias is off-the-charts on the good-guy-good-player matrix. Over the season's final two months, he authored valuable multi-inning outings – doing so in six of his final 22 outings (27.3%).

"I feel like any time there's an important game on the line, I always make it a point to go check with Snit and see if he'll give me the chance to go back out there and get the save," Iglesias said through Director, Player Relations Franco García after two scoreless innings, August 12 at San Francisco. "Fortunately, he let me go back out."

Iglesias has taken a liking to the month of August. After all, he garnered the same Reliever of the Month honors in August 2023 after pitching another scoreless calendar page. He last gave up a run in the month more than two years ago, when he allowed Boston to score a single ninth-inning run in a win, 9-7, on August 9, 2022.

Since August 21, 2020, spanning 50 August games as a member of the Reds, Angels and Braves, Iglesias has pitched to a 0.35 ERA (2 ER/51.0 IP); lowest of any pitcher in the majors with at least 20 August appearances.

"It shows that he's leaving it all out there for us, for his teammates," said catcher Travis d'Arnaud. "It means the world to us and we know he has all of our backs."

IGLESIAS RETIRED 38 CONSECUTIVE BATTERS FROM JULY 27 TO AUGUST 23, THE LONGEST STREAK BY ANY BRAVES PITCHER IN THE EXPANSION ERA (SINCE 1961).

ROUND NUMBER ALERT: SALE ESTABLISHES PAIR OF FRANCHISE RECORDS

September 3 vs. Colorado: Chris Sale bolstered his case to be the 2024 National League Cy Young Award recipient, September 3 vs. Colorado – aiding his potential Cooperstown resumé in the process. The southpaw struck out nine batters and did not issue a walk over 7.0 scoreless frames, earning his 16th win of the season; matching Detroit's Tarik Skubal for the major league-lead.

It marked his 15th consecutive turn allowing two earned runs-or-fewer, dating to June 7 at Washington. Since earned runs became official in the National League in 1912, it's the longest single-season streak by a Brave, surpassing the previous mark of 14 by Lou Fette in 1939.

Sale retired Colorado's designated hitter Drew Romo on strikes in the third inning; his 200th punchout of the season. In the franchise's Modern Era (since 1900), he's the 11th pitcher, 19th instance, to amass 200 strikeouts within a single season. Additionally, he became the first left-hander in franchise history to reach the milestone, which dates to 1871.

"I appreciate it," Sale said of reaching the 200-stikeout plateau. "It's really cool. On the flip side of that, if we do this thing right, we have two more months of baseball. So things like that, I appreciate and they're fun. But that's more for the offseason to reflect and look back on."

The 35-year-old has notched eight 200-strikeout seasons over his 14-year career; tied for second-most among left-handers in MLB history, along with Hall-of-Famer Steve Carlton, while trailing Hall-of-Famer Randy Johnson (13).

CHRIS SALE HAS NOTCHED EIGHT 200-STRIKEOUT SEASONS OVER HIS 14-YEAR CAREER.

GONE STREAKING: ATLANTA STARTERS' FRANCHISE-BEST RUN

Over a 25-game span from August 11 through September 6, Atlanta's starting pitchers allowed no more than three runs in 25 consecutive games.

The run was the club's longest within a single season since the mound moved to its current distance in 1893. The previous record was set by the 1948 Boston Braves, who made 18 consecutive starts allowing no more than three runs.

It stands as the sixth-longest run of its kind in MLB history, following Los Angeles-NL (32, 2021), Cleveland (28, 1972), St. Louis Browns (26, 1908), Chicago-AL (26, 1917) and Philadelphia (26, 1966).

Over the course of the streak, LHP Max Fried, RHP Charlie Morton, LHP Chris Sale and RHP Spencer Schwellenbach each made five starts. Right-hander Reynaldo López took four turns, while fellow right-hander Grant Holmes covered one outing.

Atlanta went 16-9 (.640) – good for the fifth-best record in the majors over that span. The club's starters led the majors in innings pitched (150.0), ERA (2.40), strikeouts (179) and quality starts (15); while ranking second in opponents' OPS (.623) and fourth in WHIP (1.12).

CHRIS SALE WINS FIRST CAREER CY YOUNG AWARD

In his first season as a Brave, Chris Sale went 18-3 with a 2.38 ERA (47 ER/177.2 IP) and 225 strikeouts across 29 starts; his most within a single season since 2017. The southpaw led the National League in wins, ERA and strikeouts, becoming the first pitcher in Braves franchise history to win the Triple Crown and first National Leaguer since Los Angeles' Clayton Kershaw (2011).

Sale received 26 of 30 first-place votes in the National League Cy Young balloting, becoming the fifth Cy Young Award recipient, eighth instance, in franchise history, joining Hall-of-Famers Greg Maddux, three times (1993-95), Tom Glavine, twice (1991, '98), Warren Spahn (1957) and John Smoltz (1996). Los Angeles (NL) is the only club with more Cy Young Awards to its credit (12).

"I think I brought that group down a little bit," Sale said, laughing – in reference to the Braves hurlers that earned the honor before him, "but I'm glad that I dipped my toe in that pool."

During his time in the American League, Sale finished top six in Cy Young balloting in each of his first seven seasons as a starter from 2012-18 – including a runner-up finish to Cleveland's Corey Kluber in '17. From 2019-23, he was limited to 298.1 total innings due to a variety of injuries. The hardware earned in 2024 made him the first pitcher to finish among the top five in Cy Young balloting for five straight years, then finish outside the top five over the five years that immediately followed, then earn another top-five finish. New York's (AL) Gerrit Cole (American League, 2023) is the only other pitcher with as many top-five finishes before winning the award.

"This wasn't an easy way to get to winning this trophy for the first time," Sale said, referencing his long injury history. "As soon as it happened, I'm thinking about people and teammates and coaches and family. It's special to me because of all the hard work that other people put in to get me here."

At 35 years, 184-days old on the final day of the regular season, Sale is the sixth-oldest pitcher at the time of their first career Cy Young Award, following Early Winn (1959, 39 years-266 days), Hall-of-Famer Dennis Eckersley (1992, 38 years-1 day), R.A. Dickey (2012, 37 years-340 days), Hall-of-Famer Warren Spahn (1957, 36 years-159 days) and Hall-of-Famer Rollie Fingers (1981, 35 years-41 days).

"My goal at the beginning of this year was just to be healthy," Sale said. "Getting greedy and thinking of things like this would have been maybe a little over my skis. I was coming to a new team that made a trade for me, when I'm sure there were a lot of people that kind of gave that trade the side-eye when it first happened… To say I'd be sitting here right now would be crazy. I just wanted to be able to do my job, really."

In addition to his All-Star and Cy Young recognition, Sale was also a first-time Gold Glove Award recipient, named the National League Comeback Player of the Year and selected to the All-MLB First Team. ◆

PROFAR

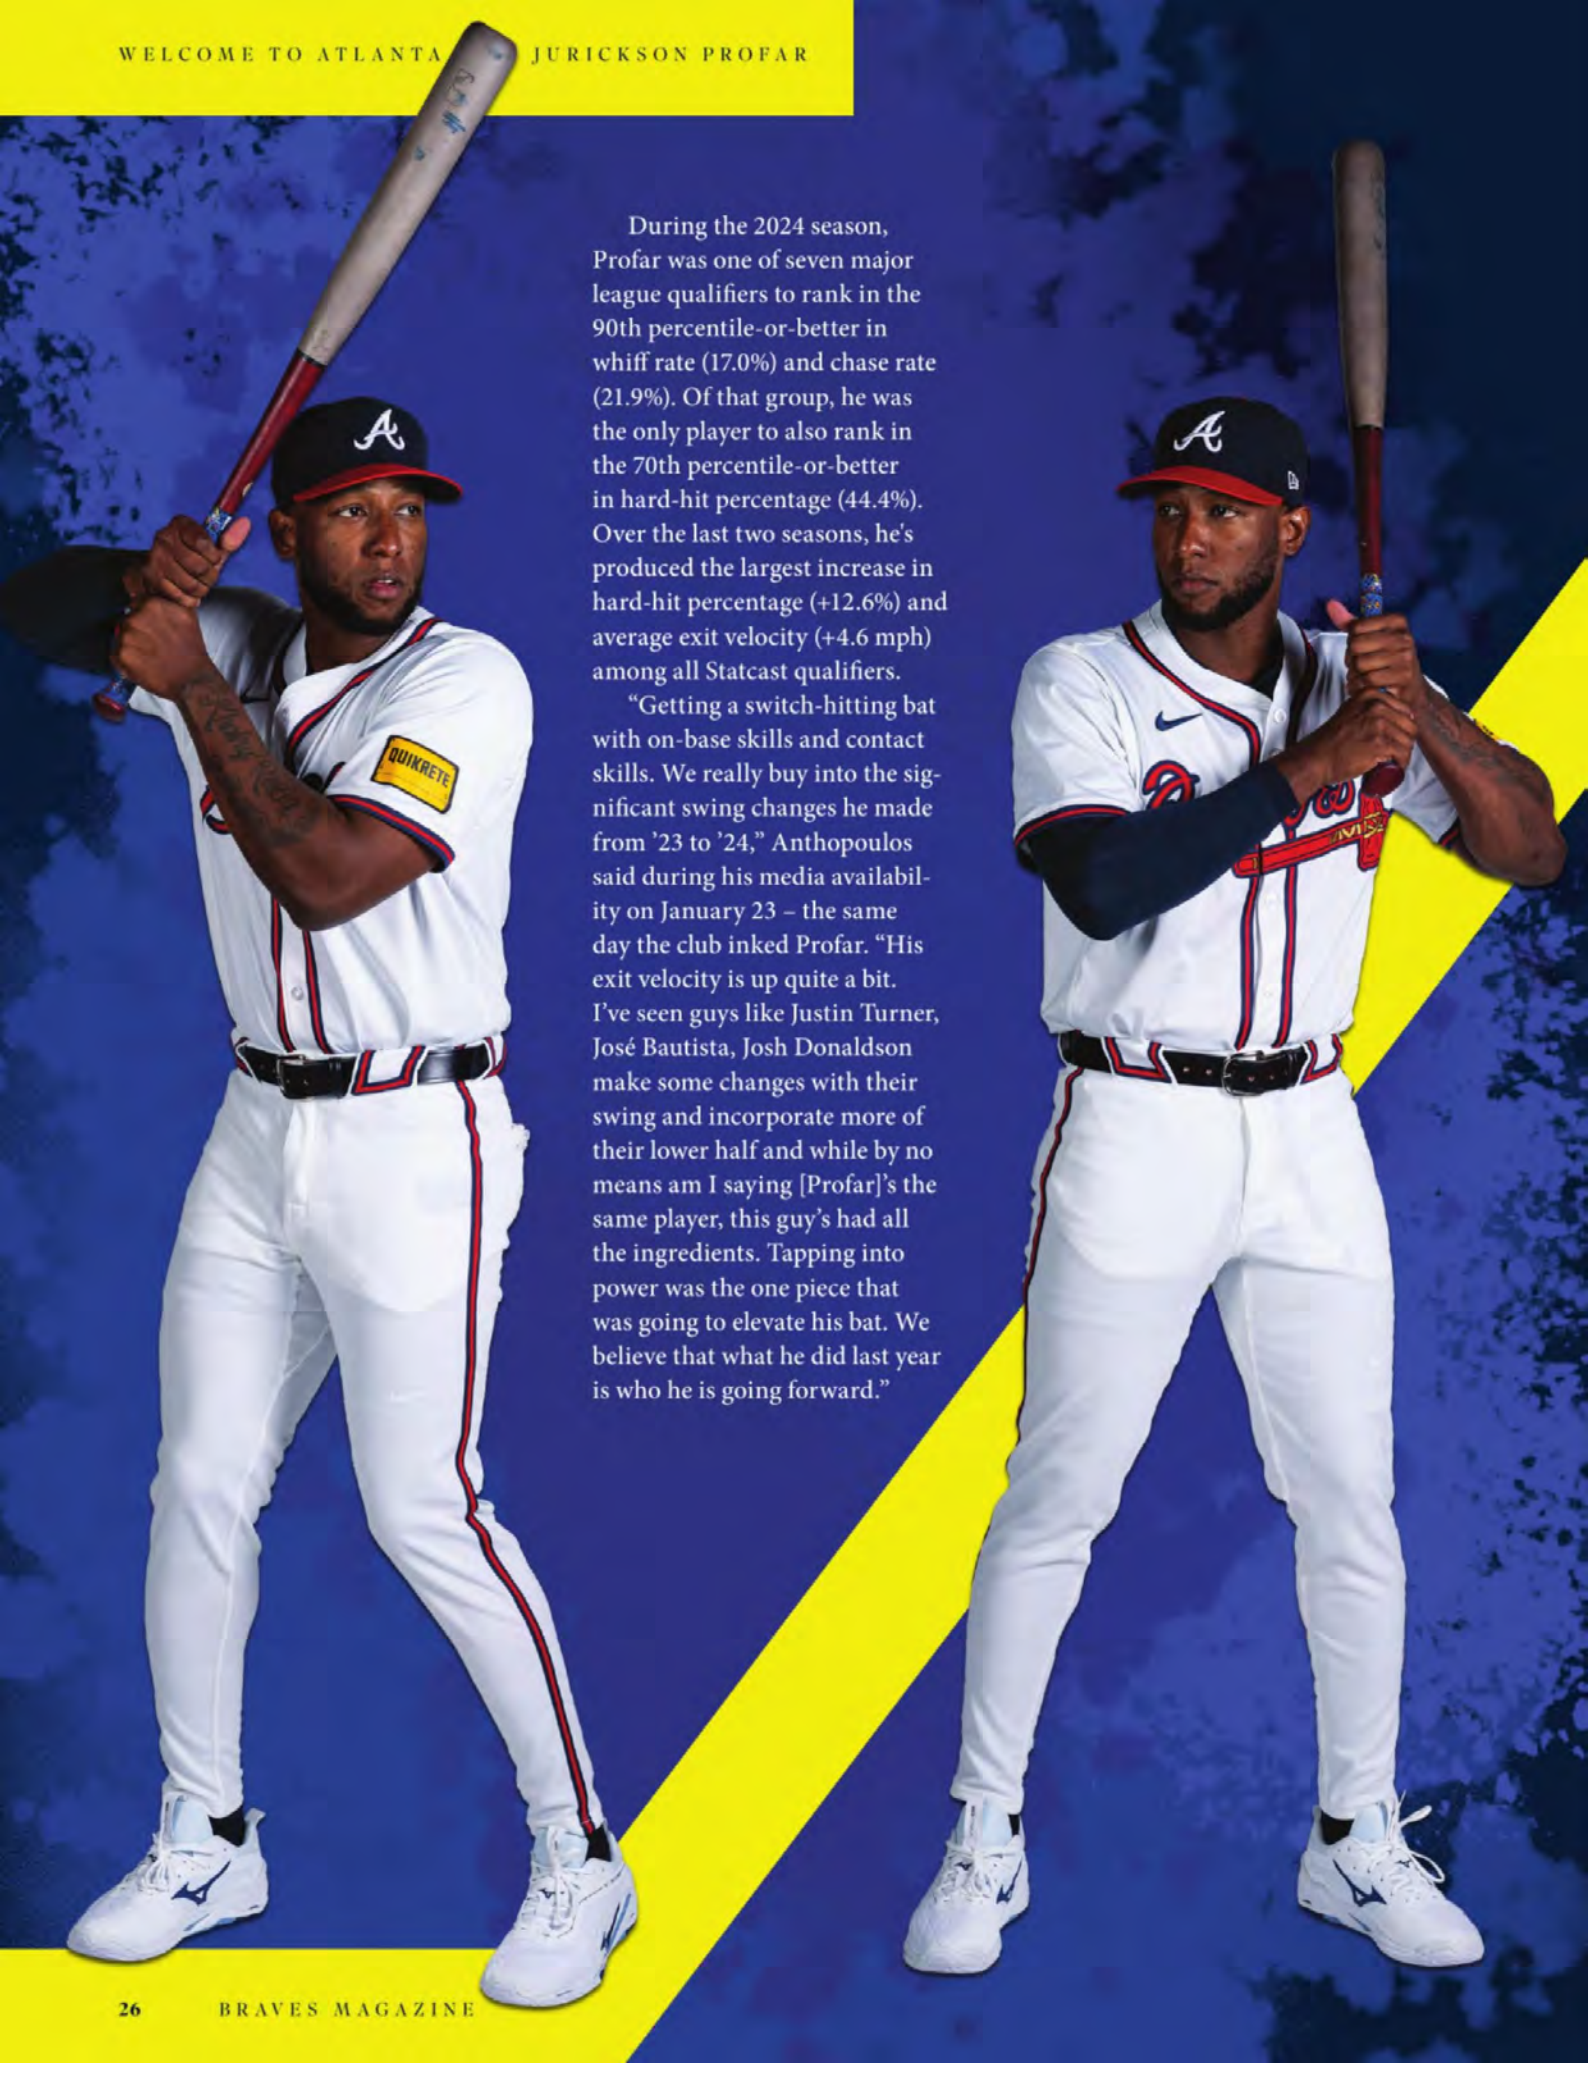
Welcome TO Atlanta, Jurickson Profar

BY JEFF LOMBARDI JR.

The Braves made a big splash this offseason, signing All-Star outfielder Jurickson Profar to a three-year, $42 million contract.

Profar, now 32, slashed .280/.380/.459 (158-for-564) over 158 games with the San Diego Padres last season, establishing career-highs in games played, multi-hit games (36), hits, home runs (24), RBI (85), runs (94), total bases (259), batting average, on-base percentage, slugging percentage and OPS (.839). He started in left field for the National League All-Star team; the first such honor of his career, garnered his first Silver Slugger Award and placed 14th in NL MVP voting.

The versatile switch-hitter was targeted by the Braves' President, Baseball Operations and General Manager Alex Anthopoulos as one of the top bats on the free agency market.



During the 2024 season, Profar was one of seven major league qualifiers to rank in the 90th percentile-or-better in whiff rate (17.0%) and chase rate (21.9%). Of that group, he was the only player to also rank in the 70th percentile-or-better in hard-hit percentage (44.4%). Over the last two seasons, he's produced the largest increase in hard-hit percentage (+12.6%) and average exit velocity (+4.6 mph) among all Statcast qualifiers.

"Getting a switch-hitting bat with on-base skills and contact skills. We really buy into the significant swing changes he made from '23 to '24," Anthopoulos said during his media availability on January 23 – the same day the club inked Profar. "His exit velocity is up quite a bit. I've seen guys like Justin Turner, José Bautista, Josh Donaldson make some changes with their swing and incorporate more of their lower half and while by no means am I saying [Profar]'s the same player, this guy's had all the ingredients. Tapping into power was the one piece that was going to elevate his bat. We believe that what he did last year is who he is going forward."

The 6-foot-0, 184-pound native of Willemstad, Curaçao, has slashed .245/.331/.395 (917-for-4,291) over his 11-year major league career, with 111 home runs, 444 RBI and 528 runs over 1,119 games. He's appeared defensively at every position around the diamond except for pitcher and catcher, compiling 549 games in the outfield (499 in left field, 33 in right field and 21 in center field), 219 games at second base, 104 at shortstop, 89 at third base and 72 at first base. A veteran of nine post-season series, he's batted .258 (23-for-89) with one home run over 27 career playoff games, including an appearance in the NLCS in 2022.

Profar's 1,119 major league games are fourth-most in MLB history by a player born in Curaçao, following Andruw Jones (2,196), Andrelton Simmons (1,225) and Jonathan Schoop (1,188). He played for the Netherlands national team in the 2013, '17 and '23 World Baseball Classics and was selected to back-to-back Futures Games for the World Team in 2011-12. During his amateur career, he led Curaçao to the Little League World Series title in 2004 and returned to the title game in 2005.

"Every Wednesday, they were putting the Braves games on TV in Curaçao," Profar said in his introductory press conference on January 24. "So, every Wednesday at 7 o'clock, I was in front of the TV to watch Andruw Jones and the Braves."

Of the 17 players in MLB history born in Curaçao, Profar is the seventh to play for the Braves, following Jones (1996-07), Randall Simon (1997-99), Jair Jurrjens (2008-12), Simmons (2012-15), Ozzie Albies (2017-Pres.) and Kenley Jansen (2022).

"EVERY WEDNESDAY, THEY WERE PUTTING THE BRAVES GAMES ON TV IN CURAÇAO. SO, EVERY WEDNESDAY AT 7 O'CLOCK, I WAS IN FRONT OF THE TV TO WATCH ANDRUW JONES AND THE BRAVES."

"There were a lot of games where I went to sleep because I had to go to school early, and the Braves would be losing," Profar said. "Then in the morning, my dad and mom would tell me they won. I was like, 'How did they win? They were losing.' The thing I always loved was in the seventh inning, they [would do The Chop] and the Braves would come back."

Originally signed by the Texas Rangers as an international free agent in 2009, Profar was rated as the No. 1 prospect in baseball prior to the 2013 season by Major League Baseball, Baseball America and Baseball Prospectus. He debuted with the Rangers in 2012 and played five years with the club, before stints with the Oakland Athletics (2019), San Diego Padres (2020-24) and Colorado Rockies (2023).

"I'm always working to get better," Profar said. "I'll prepare myself this year to be like last year, or even better. I'm very confident I can help the Braves win a lot of games and go to the playoffs and win the World Series again." ◆

We will miss one of our favorite fans. Rest in peace President Carter.

President Carter was a testament to the best America, and Georgia, can produce. He served both his country and home state with honor his entire life. While the world knew him as a remarkable humanitarian and peacemaker, we knew him as a dedicated Braves fan and we will miss having him in the stands cheering on his Braves.

Braves™

Rico Carty

1939 – 2024

Few players in franchise history connected with Braves fans like Rico Carty. A fan-favorite almost instantly after the club arrived in Atlanta from Milwaukee in 1966, Rico left an indelible mark on the Braves organization.

He owns the club's first ever hit in the city of Atlanta. His .366 batting average in 1970 is the franchise's modern-era single-season record. He was a 1970 National League All-Star and a 2023 Braves Hall of Fame inductee. And the left-field seats at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium will always be known as "Carty's Corner."

While his on-field accomplishments will never be forgotten, his unforgettable smile and generous nature will be sorely missed. It is with a heavy heart we send our sincerest condolences to his family, friends, and numerous fans around the world.

Hyers Heads Home

Meet Atlanta's new hitting coach, Tim Hyers

By Mitch George

On October 24, 2024, the Atlanta Braves announced that Tim Hyers joined the major league coaching staff as hitting coach. He joined the Braves after spending the prior three seasons in the same capacity with the Texas Rangers, where he won a World Series title in 2023.

Hyers, who grew up a Braves fan and noted that Dale Murphy was his favorite player, reflected on his roots when he met with media for the first time at 2025 spring training.

"It is very rewarding," said the graduate of Newton High School in Covington, Ga. "What a great organization and franchise. Growing up, those early-80s teams were my favorite."

Hyers, 53, said he has three key principles he hopes to impart to Braves batters: game planning, swing decisions, and mechanics.

"Some guys just fell in some bad habits," Hyers said of the Braves' 2024 performance. "Some movement patterns got away. We've talked about cleaning up some of the movement and thoughts…Understanding how they think and how they prepare will be important for me to try to help them in those challenging moments."

He has spent the previous nine seasons on a major league coaching staff, initially serving as assistant hitting coach for the Los Angeles Dodgers from 2016-17. He then worked as hitting coach for the Boston Red Sox from 2018 to 2021, winning a World Series title with the franchise in his first season, prior to joining the Rangers in 2022.

Hyers has coached 12 Silver Slugger award winners throughout his career, while Texas won the inaugural Team Silver Slugger in the American League in 2023.

During his three-season tenure with Texas, the Rangers compiled the third-most runs (2,271) and home runs (607) in the American League, and hit .247/.315/.410 overall. In the club's championship-winning campaign in 2023, the Rangers paced the American League in runs scored and OPS, and became the first team in franchise history to lead the AL in batting average, on-base percentage, slugging percentage and OPS. Over his four-season stint with Boston, the Red Sox led all of baseball in runs (2,898), total bases (8,632), extra-base hits (1,989), batting average (.266), slugging percentage (.455) and OPS (.790).

The Atlanta native was originally selected by the Toronto Blue Jays in the second round of the 1990 First-Year Player Draft, and played parts of four seasons in the majors. He was chosen one round after Hall-of-Famer Chipper Jones went first overall to Atlanta. Hyers, who batted and threw left-handed during his playing career, appeared in 133 career games with the Padres, Tigers and Marlins, and played professionally for 10 seasons before joining the coaching ranks.

Hyers is eager to join his hometown club and continue his well-decorated career, with aspirations of garnering another World Series championship.

"The talent is here," he said. "As a hitting guy, it's fun to see the talent, engage with the guys and see what they're capable of doing. A lot of them have long resumés here and they've played really well." ◆

"AS A HITTING GUY, IT'S FUN TO SEE THE TALENT, ENGAGE WITH THE GUYS AND SEE WHAT THEY'RE CAPABLE OF DOING."

CHRIS SALE CLAIMS ELUSIVE PITCHING TRIPLE CROWN & CY YOUNG AWARD

ERA

By Mitch George

In the middle of 2024's February, a tall, slender southpaw strode into the Atlanta Braves' spring training clubhouse in North Port, Florida.

Chris Sale, Atlanta's newly-acquired veteran presence, arrived with numerous elite seasons credited to his name. But, after enduring career-altering injuries that limited him to just 31 starts from 2020-'23, he was seeking to regain ground as one of the game's most formidable arms.

By the time spring training commenced a year later, Sale walked into that same clubhouse having won the National League Triple Crown and a Cy Young Award. He put to rest any narrative that insinuated he was a "reclamation project," a "risk," a "flyer," or any other misnomer that implied anything short of dominance.

Sale, now a 36-year-old in his 15th major league season, was also named to the 2024 All-MLB First team, chosen as the NL Comeback Player of the Year, and selected to his eighth career All-Star team. His sterling 1.000 fielding percentage also earned him his first career Rawlings Gold Glove Award.

Each of those honors were well-deserved following a historic season, wherein he made 29 starts (nearly reaching his total from the last four seasons combined) and went 18-3 with a 2.38 earned run average (47 ER/177.2 IP). He led the majors in both wins and ERA, while also leading the National League in strikeouts, in turn becoming the first NL Triple Crown winner since Clayton Kershaw in 2011. Sale also captured the first Triple Crown in franchise history.

"I can't stress enough about everybody that helped me get here," Sale said following his Cy Young win. "I'm just very, very thankful for them. Honestly, just being able to come down to Atlanta and be comfortable, that clubhouse was one of the easiest clubhouses to walk into and feel comfortable."

CHRIS SALE 2024

Despite his early-career success, Sale's Cy Young victory was the first of his career. His 2024 numbers were reminiscent of his younger years with the Chicago White Sox, when he logged an even 3.00 ERA across 372 games in southside pinstripes. Last season he allowed no more than two earned runs in each of his final 18 starts dating to June 7. Since earned runs became official in both leagues in 1913, that run stands as the longest single-season stretch by a traditional starter in baseball history.

Simply put, Chris Sale performed at a level reached by few Atlanta pitchers. In a franchise that has enjoyed such illustrious pitching history, that means even more. He became the fifth different hurler to win a Cy Young Award for the Braves, joining legends Greg Maddux (1993-'95), John Smoltz (1996), Tom Glavine (1991, '98) and Warren Spahn (1957).

As for the Comeback Player of the Year Award, which has been bestowed annually in both leagues since 2005, Sale became the fourth Brave to earn the distinction. Tim Hudson (2010), Jonny Venters (2018) and Josh Donaldson (2019) also did so.

So, what is ahead for Chris Sale? On January 4, 2024, he signed a two-year, $38 million contract with a club option for 2026 worth $18 million. That inking signified the Braves' trust in him before he even threw a pitch for the club. Going forward, Sale indicated that his health must remain paramount.

"Health is the main goal of all of this," he said in his first media scrum of this year's spring training. "You can't do a lot if you're not healthy – having a clean slate, starting fresh, having everyone back…We're just excited to get this thing going and try to take back the division."

In 2024, he put the entire league on notice: a healthy Chris Sale should be regarded as one of the league's preeminent pitchers.

Along with the many things that changed for Sale last season, including his uniform, his jersey number, his teammates and his fan base, so, too, did his public perception. No longer is he the injury-riddled, formerly-dominant southpaw with his best days behind him. In 2024, he reclaimed his identity as a fear-imposing, firey frontline starter that can overwhelm the best hitters in the world. ◆

Kevin D. Liles' Baseball Photography

BY KEVIN D. LILES

The 2024 season with the Atlanta Braves was nothing short of a roller coaster, a wild ride that didn't stop until the very last game.

From the first pitch, the energy was palpable in the fans and players. Everyone wanted another magical season like the 2021 campaign that brought the Commissioner's Trophy home for the fourth time in our storied franchise. We all know how the season ended, but it was an incredible one to photograph. I've said it before, but documenting this team is a dream come true. I grew up watching the Braves of the 1990s, and the group of guys we've had over the past several years has that same magic and camaraderie that brings home championships. I can't think of a more fun group to photograph.

Yet, this season was not without its challenges. Injury after injury stacked up like a cruel game of chance, testing our resolve and chipping away at what promised to be a spectacular year. Key players found themselves sidelined, and the unpredictability that baseball is known for came to shake our beliefs that the playoffs were a reality. The team had to dig deep, reshuffling the lineup and calling upon younger talent to fill the gaps. Every game became an exercise in perseverance, as the Braves fought tooth and nail to stay in the playoff race despite the setbacks.

But that's the beauty of this game—it knows how to keep you on your toes. Just when it seemed the season might derail, the Braves came roaring back. There were moments of sheer brilliance that kept us all on the edge of our seats. The thrilling comebacks, the impossible catches, and the home runs that cleared the fence had a way of igniting the crowd and reminding us why we love this sport. The season came down to the very last game, part of a doubleheader on the day after the regular season ended (an MLB first).

Billy
Wagner
finally gets the CALL from the HALL

By Jeff Lombardi Jr.

In his 10th and final year of eligibility, former Braves relief pitcher Billy Wagner is Cooperstown-bound.

The Marion, Va. native will officially have his name etched into baseball immortality later this summer with his induction into the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum. Joining Wagner is a pair of first-ballot inductees, left-handed pitcher C.C. Sabathia and outfielder Ichiro Suzuki, as well as Classic Baseball Era Committee electees outfielder Dave Parker and the late infielder Dick Allen. The announcement was made on January 21, 2025.

Following his 16-year major league playing career, which he completed in 2010 with Atlanta, Wagner received 10.5 percent of the vote during his first appearance on the Baseball Writers' Association of America Hall of Fame ballot in 2016. His voting share remained in the 10.2 percent – 16.7 percent range through 2019, before seeing his total nearly double – garnering 31.7 percent of the vote in 2020. Over his final five years on the ballot, Wagner steadily climbed toward the necessary 75 percent threshold, with his biggest leap occurring from his seventh year in 2022 (51.0 percent) to his eighth year in 2023 (68.1 percent) – before falling just five votes shy in 2024 (73.8 percent). Ultimately, the left-hander received 82.5 percent of the vote in his final year of eligibility.

Among players to elected by the BBWAA in the modern voting era (since 1966), Wagner's debut vote percentage of 10.5 is the second-lowest figure – topped only by 2023 inductee Scott Rolen, who received 10.2 percent of the vote just five years earlier in 2018. Additionally, he became the eighth player since annual voting returned in 1966 to be elected on his final ballot, following Red Ruffing (1967), Joe Medwick (1968), Ralph Kiner (1975), Jim Rice (2009), Tim Raines (2017), Edgar Martínez (2019) and Larry Walker (2020).

A natural-born right-hander, Wagner learned to throw left-handed after fracturing his arm twice in his youth. Years later, the 5-foot-11, 180-pound southpaw was selected in the first round (12th overall) by the Houston Astros in the 1993 MLB June Amateur Draft from Ferrum College – a NCAA Division-III school in Ferrum, VA. He debuted with the big league club two years later as a September call-up in 1995, before establishing himself as the club's closer on a full-time basis in 1997.

In 16 major league seasons with the Astros (1995-2003), Philadelphia Phillies (2004-05), New York Mets (2006-09), Boston Red Sox (2009) and Atlanta Braves (2010), Wagner appeared in 853 games and recorded 422 saves; eighth-most since saves became an official statistic in 1969 and second-most among left-handers, two shy of John Franco. Class of 2006 inductee, Bruce Sutter, is the only other Hall of Fame pitcher to have never started a major league game.

Among pitchers with at least 900.0 career innings, his 11.9 strikeouts-per-nine innings pitched is the highest in MLB history, while his 2.31 ERA (232 ER/903.0 IP), 0.998 WHIP and .187 opponents' batting average are the lowest of any left-handed pitcher in the Live-Ball Era (since 1920). He earned seven All-Star selections (1999, '01, '03, '05, '07-08, '10), won the 1999 National League Rolaids Relief Man Award, finished top-10 in saves in the National League ten times and twice placed top-6 in NL Cy Young Award balloting (1999, 4th and 2006, 6th).

"I was the naïve kid who was thrown into the mix," Wagner said during his media availability on January 21. "I had done it [relief work] in college. So they put me in that situation, and naïve is a blessing. I loved being in the bullpen because I could pitch every day, and it also gave me a way to stay in the games. If I was a starter, I'd have four days, and I don't know if I could have handled myself. I would have gone stir crazy. Being a reliever fit my personality."

Wagner will don an Astros cap on his Hall of Fame plaque, though his lone season with the Braves – his final big league campaign in 2010, was among his finest work. In his age-38 season, he converted 37 saves – logging a career-best 1.43 ERA (11 ER/69.1 IP) and 13.5 K/9. In doing so, he became the fifth pitcher since earned runs became official in 1912, to appear in at least 70 games, while recording a sub-1.50 ERA, joining Ted Abernathy (1967), John Wetteland (1993), Eric Gagné (2003) and Hall-of-Famer Mariano Rivera (2005). He's also one of seven pitchers, nine instances, in Braves franchise history to eclipse 100 punchouts, within a single-season (104), alongside Steve Bedrosian (1982-83) and Craig Kimbrel (2011-12); twice each, Mark Wohlers (1996), John Rocker (1999) Rafael Soriano (2009) and Luke Jackson (2019).

"The game has given me so much," an emotional Wagner said. "It's given me everything I could possibly ask. I'm very grateful."

The 2025 induction ceremony is scheduled for July 27 at the Clark Sports Center in Cooperstown, N.Y. ♦

"THE GAME HAS GIVEN ME SO MUCH, IT'S GIVEN ME EVERYTHING I COULD POSSIBLY ASK. I'M VERY GRATEFUL."

THE Braves
1995
World Series
Championship

BY JEFF LOMBARDI JR.

HISTORY LESSON

The 1995 Major League Baseball season was played on the heels of a 232-day work stoppage, dating to August 1994. The '94 strike included the cancelation of that year's World Series; the second time a World Series was not played in a given season and the first since 1904. As a result, the '95 campaign was reduced to 144 regular season games.

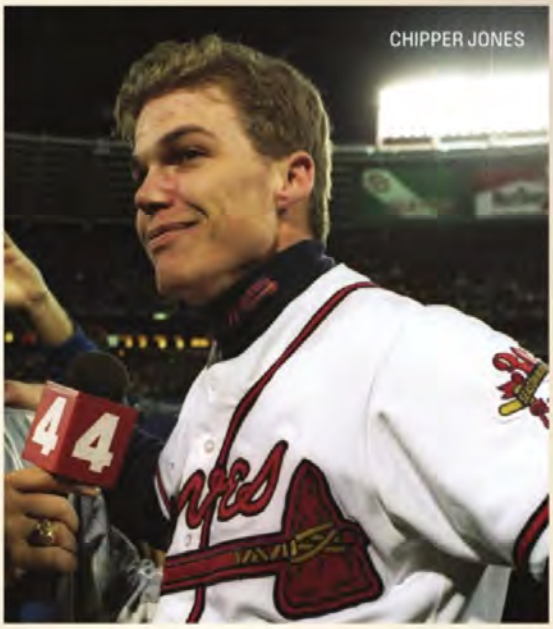
In tandem with the 1994 realignment into three divisions per league, a Wild Card team – the winningest club that didn't win a division – was added to the postseason field. The Wild Card winner played the team with the league's best record, unless that team was in the same division, in which case it would face the second-best division winner. Because of the 1994 players' strike, this format

TED TURNER HOISTS THE 1995 WORLD SERIES TROPHY.

– which included the return of the League Division Series (LDS) for the first time since 1981 and a best-of-seven League Championship Series (LCS), did not debut until 1995.

For the Atlanta Braves, the success of the 1995 season was crucial to the club's perception. Over the 1991-93 seasons, the Braves accumulated the best regular season record in the majors at 296-190 (.609). The club's 296 victories were 14 more than the next closest team, the Toronto Blue Jays, and 27 greater than the closest National League squad, the Pittsburgh Pirates. Despite its regular season success, Atlanta fell short in the World Series in both 1991 to Minnesota (4-3) and 1992 to Toronto (4-2), and again in the 1993 NLCS to Philadelphia (4-2).

BOBBY COX



CHIPPER JONES

1995 IN REVIEW

In 1995, the Braves boasted the National League's best record, going 90-54 (.625) over the truncated regular season – eventually leading to the club's third World Series appearance over a four-postseason span. Atlanta dropped just one game while advancing past National League foes Colorado and Cincinnati, before taking the World Series in six games over Cleveland – five of which were decided by one run. In 29 postseasons that have followed, the 2008 Phillies are the only National League club to win the World Series with no more than three postseason defeats.

The '95 season also marked the club's 30th based in Atlanta, having relocated prior to the 1966 season, following 82 seasons in Boston (1871-1952) and 13 seasons in Milwaukee (1953-1965). By virtue of the 1995 World Series championship, the Braves became the first team in MLB history – and remain the only club – to win World Series titles in three different home cities (1914, '57, '95 and 2021).

THE SKIPPER

In his sixth season since returning to the Braves dugout, Bobby Cox, a future Hall-of-Famer himself (class of 2014), led a team composed of five future Hall-of-Fame players: starting pitchers Tom Glavine (class of '14), Greg Maddux (class of '14) and John Smoltz (class of '15), third baseman Chipper Jones (class of '18) and first baseman Fred McGriff (class of '23). Atlanta's general manager, John Schuerholz, was also elected to Cooperstown, gaining enshrinement via the Today's Game Era Committee in 2017. In the Expansion Era (since 1961), the 1995 and '96 Braves remain the only participating World Series clubs to field five future Hall-of-Fame players.

CHIPPER

After missing the entire 1994 season due to a torn left ACL, future franchise cornerstone Chipper Jones completed his first full season in the majors in '95; finishing second in National League Rookie of the Year balloting to Los Angeles' RHP Hideo Nomo. Jones led all major league rookies in games played (140), RBI (86), runs (87), while ranking second to the American League Rookie of the Year, Minnesota's Marty Cordova in hits (139) home runs (23) and total bases (236). In his postseason debut, NLDS Game 1 at Colorado, Jones hit a pair of solo home runs, becoming the third player in MLB postseason history with a multi-homer effort in their first career postseason game and the youngest to do so at 23 years of age. Jones was one of six players to appear in each of the club's 14 postseason games, slashing .364/.466/.618 (20-for-55), with three home runs, five doubles, eight RBI and 10 runs.

A.C. WHITE
RELOCATIONS

Celebrating 99 Years in Business in Atlanta

100 YEARS!

A.C. White is a fourth-generation, family-owned moving company based in Atlanta, founded in 1926 by A.C. White Sr. It began with a single pickup truck for local drayage services from his home in Marietta, Georgia. Over time, the company grew, and in 1930, A.C. White Jr. made a cross-country trip in a truck with no doors or lights, using lanterns for visibility at night. By 1941, A.C. White became one of the South's largest moving companies, with offices in several major cities and 40 employees.

The company faced challenges during World War II, with many staff members enlisted, but A.C. White Sr. kept the business going with furniture stores and real estate ventures. In 1949, the business was passed on to six family members, and by 1950, A.C. White joined United Van Lines. Sales grew steadily, reaching over $500,000 by 1961 equivalent to $5 Million in 2025. By 1976, A.C. White had expanded to 85 employees and over 80 pieces of equipment.

As of 2021, A.C. White employed 150 people and operated six warehouses across Georgia. In that year, the Household Goods division was sold to Apple Moving, but the company continues to operate as a trusted commercial mover, maintaining a family-oriented business culture. Many employees, including management, have been with A.C. White for over 20 years.

THE VETERANS: GRISSOM, JUSTICE AND McGRIFF

The veteran presence of Marquis Grissom, David Justice and Fred McGriff proved to be invaluable amid a lineup that had an average age just shy of 28 years-old, making for the sixth-youngest group in the majors.

Grissom, the club's primary leadoff man and lone member of the 1995 Braves to be born and raised in Atlanta, was acquired from the Montreal Expos less than three weeks before the season began. Grissom solidified the club's outfield defense, leading all National League center fielders with nine assists – winning his third of four consecutive Gold Gloves at the position. It was Grissom who secured the final out in the decisive Game 6 of the World Series, tracking down a fly ball off the bat of Cleveland's Carlos Baerga. As told by NBC's Bob Costas on the game's telecast, "left-center field, Grissom on the run…the team of the '90s has its world championship!"

By the time of his seventh big league season in 1995, homegrown talent David Justice had been on the wrong end of two World Series appearances with Atlanta in both 1991 and '92. Through his first 13 career World Series games, which spanned Game 1 of the 1991 World Series through Game 5 of the '95 set, Justice mustered a .203 batting average (13-for-64), with just three extra-base hits – all home runs. In the decisive Game 6 of '95, Justice brought the Atlanta crowd to its feet when he led off the home half of the sixth inning and clubbed a 1-1 offering from Cleveland's left-hander Jim Poole beyond the 385-foot marking in right-center field – breaking a scoreless tie. The score held over the final three frames forever etching Justice in Atlanta baseball lore.

Entering the 1995 season, Fred McGriff was already a two-time All-Star (1992, '94) and had finished top-10 in MVP balloting six times, including each year from 1989-93. Over that span, he led the majors with 208 home runs; 14 more than the next closest player, the eventual all-time home run king, Barry Bonds – while ranking fifth in RBI (585). Like Grissom, McGriff was acquired by Atlanta, joining the club from San Diego ahead of trade deadline in 1993. That year's club fell short in the NLCS to Philadelphia in six games – to no fault of McGriff, who hit .435 (10-for-23) in the series. In '95, McGriff, Atlanta's lone position player to be named to the National League All-Star team, batted from the clean-up spot in all 144 of his appearances and paced the club in nearly every offensive category – hits (148), home runs (27), doubles (27), RBI (93), total bases (258), slugging percentage (.489) and OPS (.850). He carried over his hot bat from the '93 postseason, hitting a cool .333 (19-for-57), with a team-leading four home runs over the Braves 14-game postseason run. The "Crime Dog" notably set the tone in the '95 Fall Classic, drilling a tape-measure shot on the first offering he saw from Cleveland's right-hander Orel Hershiser in Game 1 of the series – plating Atlanta's first run in an eventual 3-2 win.

JOHN SMOLTZ

THE STARTING STAFF

The Braves used five starting pitchers: right-handers Greg Maddux and John Smoltz, and left-handers Tom Glavine, Steve Avery and Kent Mercker to cover all but three of the club's 144 regular season games. Maddux (1st, 1.63), Glavine (8th, 3.08) and Smoltz (10th, 3.18) became the seventh trio of teammates in the Divisional Era (since 1969) to finish top-10 in the majors in ERA, and the first since Bob Ojeda (3rd, 2.57), Ron Darling (5th, 2.81) and Dwight Gooden (8th, 2.84) of the 1986 New York Mets. The Braves threesome would go on to replicate the feat in 1996 (Maddux, 2nd, 2.72 | Smoltz, 5th, 2.94 | Glavine 6th, 2.98) and again in 1998 (Maddux, 1st, 2.22 | Glavine, 4th, 2.47 | Smoltz, 8th, 2.90).

Maddux took home his fourth straight National League Cy Young Award, doing so in unanimous fashion. The future Hall-of-Famer went 19-2, with a 1.63 ERA (38 ER/209.2 IP) and 181 strikeouts across 28 starts – pacing the majors in ERA, complete games (10) and WHIP (0.811). His 19 wins tied Baltimore's Mike Mussina for the major league-lead, while he led the Senior Circuit in innings pitched and shutouts (3). Atlanta won four of his five starts during the postseason, including Game 1 of the World Series vs. Cleveland, in which he tossed a complete game on 95 pitches en route to a 3-2 Braves win.

Smoltz, the strikeout artist of the rotation, punched out 193 batters; good for the fifth-highest total in the majors and bested in the National League by the 1995 Rookie of the Year, Los Angeles' (NL) Hideo Nomo (236). His rate of 9.0 strikeouts per nine innings was the highest of his career to that point – having averaged 7.0 K/9 over his first seven big league seasons. Had the World Series gone the distance, Smoltz was Atlanta's ace in the hole for Game 7.

During the regular season, Glavine's 16 wins and 3.08 ERA (68 ER/198.2 IP) across 29 starts were strong enough for a third-place finish in the National League Cy Young Award balloting, placing behind Maddux and Cincinnati's Pete Schourek (18-7, 2.33). Among GREG MADDUX TOSSED A COMPLETE GAME ON 95 PITCHES EN ROUTE TO A 3-2 BRAVES WIN IN GAME 1 OF THE WORLD SERIES.

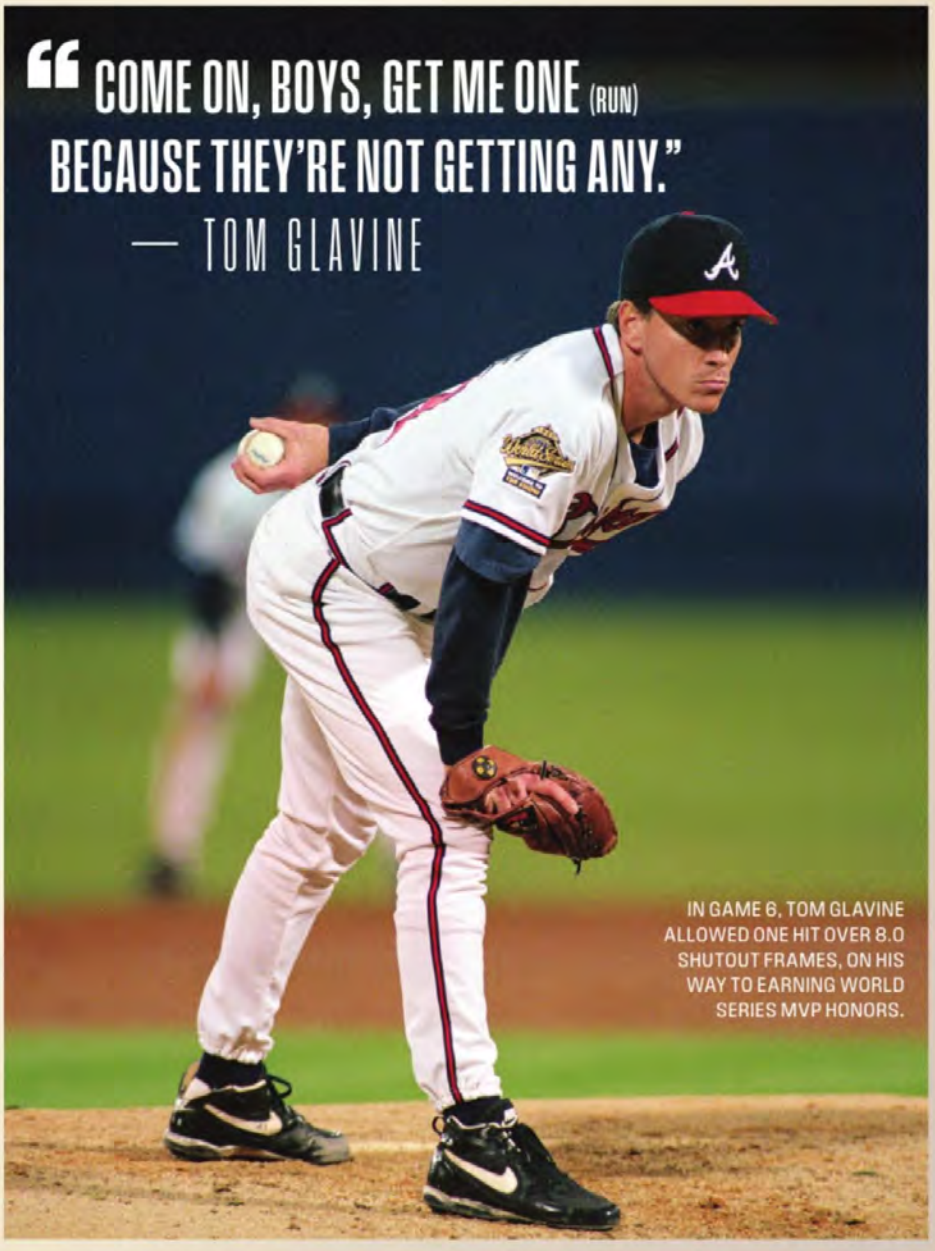
Senior Circuit hurlers, his 16 victories were topped only by Maddux (19), Schourek (18) and Los Angeles' (NL) Ramón Martínez (17). Over a five-year stretch from 1991-95, Glavine led the majors with 91 wins and ranked fifth among all qualifiers in ERA (3.06). He finished top-3 in NL Cy Young voting four times; taking home the honors in 1991.

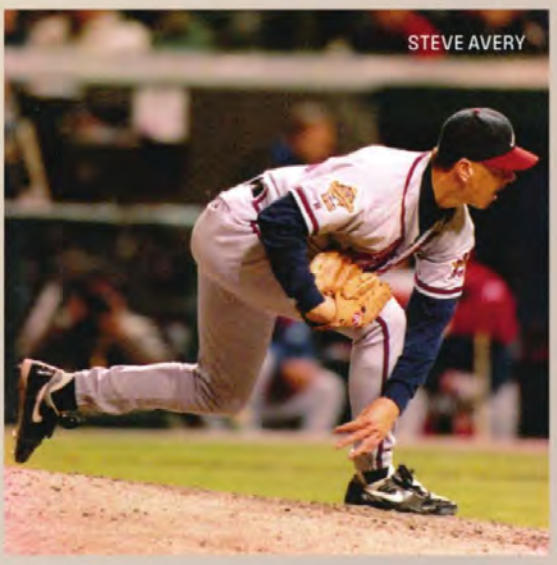
Revered for his postseason résumé, Glavine's best October was that of '95. The southpaw pitched to a 1.61 ERA (5 ER/28.0 IP), with Atlanta winning each of his four turns.

In the World Series, the Braves took a 2-0 series lead behind Glavine (6.0 IP, 2 ER) – though he saved his best effort for the clincher. Starting on regular rest, he allowed one hit and struck out eight over 8.0 shutout frames in Game 6. After his fifth inning of work – and the game still scoreless, he shouted, "Come on, boys, get me one (run) because they're not getting any." His demand was answered with urgency, as David Justice's leadoff home run in the sixth inning proved to be the lone run of the game for either team. For the series, he navigated an Indians lineup that featured two future Hall-of-Famers: Eddie Murray and Jim Thome, along with feared bats of Carlos Baerga, Albert Belle, Kenny Lofton and Manny Ramírez – to near perfection, earning World Series MVP honors.

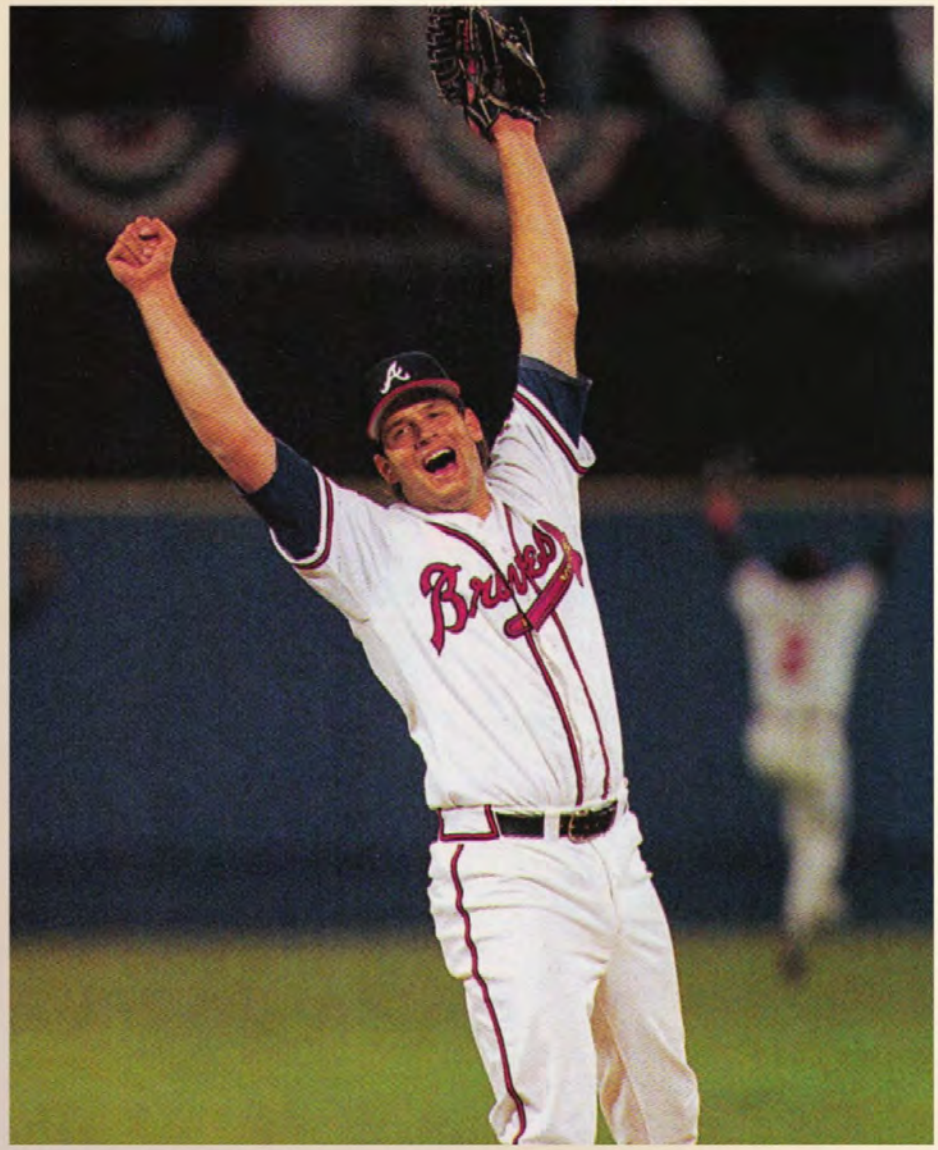
Avery, who was sub-par during the regular season (7-13, 4.67), appeared four times in the postseason, making two starts – Game 4 of both the NLCS vs. Cincinnati and the World Series at Cleveland. He earned the win and completed 6.0 innings in each of his starting assignments – logging a 1.42 postseason ERA (2 ER/12.2 IP); lowest of the 15 pitchers to make multiple starts in the '95 postseason.



IN GAME 6, TOM GLAVINE ALLOWED ONE HIT OVER 8.0 SHUTOUT FRAMES, ON HIS WAY TO EARNING WORLD SERIES MVP HONORS.



STEVE AVERY



THE 'PEN

Right-handers Mark Wohlers and Greg McMichael anchored Atlanta's bullpen. Wohlers, a homegrown talent who assumed the team's closer role ahead of the 1995 campaign, converted 25-of-29 (86.2%) of his regular season save opportunities, posting a 2.09 ERA (15 ER/64.2 IP) and 90 strikeouts across 65 relief appearances. He fanned 12.5 batters-per-nine innings; the highest rate among all relief pitchers with at least 50 innings pitched, while ranking fifth in ERA. In the postseason, flame-throwing Wohlers converted 4-of-5 save opportunities, which included a 1-2-3 ninth inning to preserve a 1-0 lead in the World Series clincher.

McMichael's 67 appearances and 80.2 relief innings were both team-highs. The duo of Wohlers and McMichael became the second pairing in franchise history to pitch in at least 65 games, within a single season, joining Rick Camp and Gene Garber (1980). ◆

The 2000 All-Star Game at Turner Field featured generational talent both in the lineup and on the mound for each league. The American League, led by Derek Jeter, Pudge Rodríguez, Bernie Williams and Jason Giambi, defeated the NL and starting pitcher Randy Johnson, who was flanked by Chipper Jones, Barry Larkin, Vladimir Guerrero and Sammy Sosa. The American League was led by the New York Yankees' Joe Torre, while the National League was helmed by hometown skipper Bobby Cox in a managerial rematch from the 1999 World Series.

Baseball immortal Hank Aaron, who garnered 25 All-Star selections himself, threw out the ceremonial first pitch prior to a contest that featured 14 future Hall-of-Famers.

The Braves fielded five representatives in the matchup: two pitchers and three hitters. Electee Greg Maddux did not appear in the game, but Tom Glavine logged a scoreless fifth inning, retiring Carl Everett, Pudge Rodríguez and Jermaine Dye in order. Offensively, Andrés Galarraga, Andruw Jones and Chipper combined to go 5-for-9, but Atlanta's offensive output was highlighted by a hallmark moment in the third inning.

With two outs in the bottom of the frame, Chipper Jones sauntered to the plate to face James Baldwin. In a 2-0 count, Jones lashed a fastball to the opposite field, comfortably clearing the wall in left-center.

Jones' longball perpetuated a common thread for Atlanta All-Stars. When Georgia hosted its first Midsummer Classic in 1972, Aaron homered in that contest.

On July 25, 1972, an awe-striking cast of MLB legends descended upon Atlanta Stadium (to be lengthened to Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium in 1975).

Led by Hank Aaron and Willie Mays, the National Leaguers also featured the bats of Joe Morgan, Willie Stargell and Johnny Bench. Their hurler, Bob Gibson, toed the rubber against the likes of Rod Carew, Reggie Jackson and Carl Yastrzemski.

Aaron was the lone Atlanta representative, but he made sure the Braves made a hometown impact nonetheless. With his team trailing, 1-0, Aaron squared to the plate opposite future Hall-of-Famer Gaylord Perry. He launched a go-ahead, two-run homer to jockey the National Leaguers to the lead.

The game eventually extended into extra innings, when the NL walked off victorious after Joe Morgan's RBI-single.

Following the victory, Aaron told reporters that his home run was the most dramatic of his career. Two seasons later, he would hit his 715th and become the game's all-time leader, likely reorganizing his list of influential home runs.

The Braves franchise hosted one All-Star Game while playing in Milwaukee, doing so on July 12, 1955. Among its participants were Willie Mays, Mickey Mantle, Stan Musial, Ted Williams, Yogi Berra, Al Kaline and Duke Snider.

Five players donned Braves threads: Hank Aaron, Eddie Mathews, Del Crandall, Gene Conley and Johnny Logan. Aaron headlined the Senior Circuit's offense by going 2-for-2 with a run, RBI and walk.

After the American League tagged NL starter Robin Roberts for four runs in the first inning, the National League rallied to force extra innings tied at five apiece. Stan Musial's walk-off home run in the bottom of the 12th inning made a winner out of the NL and Conley, who pitched the top half of the inning.

The first All-Star Game hosted by the Braves franchise was just the fourth in Major League Baseball history, taking place in Boston just a mile from Fenway Park. Originally called Braves Field, the venue was used by many different iterations of the franchise and regarded as one of the best in baseball. In the 1936 Midsummer classic, the park played host to the household names of Joe DiMaggio, Lou Gehrig, Jimmie Foxx and Lefty Grove.

The 1936 Boston Bees were 12.5 games back at the All-Star break, translating to just one All-Star selection: outfielder Wally Berger, who did not appear in the game.

The National Leaguers jumped to an early lead and never relinquished it, earning their first All-Star Game win in four tries. ◆

YOUTH DEVELOPMENT FOUNDATION

By Shawn Johnson

The Atlanta Braves are officially on the clock to host the 2025 MLB All-Star Game presented by Mastercard at Truist Park and The Battery Atlanta. The 95th Midsummer Classic makes its way to Atlanta for the third time – 1972, 2000, and 2025 – and will be preceded by MLB All-Star Week showcasing various All-Star initiatives and activations across the City of Atlanta.

Leading off the 2025 MLB All-Star festivities is the third annual HBCU Swingman Classic presented by T-Mobile and powered by the MLB-MLBPA Youth Development Foundation (YDF). This special event will take place at Truist Park on Friday, July 11 at 7:00 p.m. ET.

Established in 2023 during MLB All-Star Week in Seattle, the Swingman Classic highlights the history and legacy of HBCU baseball programs while providing an "All-Star" game experience for the top 50 baseball student-athletes from Division I programs at HBCUs.

This premier All-Star initiative is a philanthropic and educational event complemented by various HBCU-inspired ceremonies and performances as well as community activations.

Participating student-athletes are selected by a committee that includes YDF Ambassador & Hall-of-Famer Ken Griffey Jr., representatives from MLB, the MLBPA, and scouts.

Several Braves alumni attended HBCUs, including Marvin Freeman (P), Marquis Grissom (OF), Ralph Garr (OF) and Bill Lucas (INF). Each player showcased elite talent among the HBCU baseball circuit leading to successful careers in the big leagues. These four represent institutions across the Southeast including Florida A&M University, Jackson State University, and Grambling State University, while paving the way for the next generation of ballplayers participating in this initiative.

Garr, Grissom, and Freeman each played a pivotal role during the inaugural HBCU Swingman Classic as coaches and have continued to be pioneers in the HBCU baseball community within Metro Atlanta and across Braves Country.

Fans are encouraged to celebrate and bring their HBCU pride to the ballpark for the HBCU Swingman Classic. Bring in the return of the Midsummer Classic with a night filled with fellowship and special entertainment!

PARTICIPATING STUDENT-ATHLETES ARE SELECTED BY A COMMITTEE THAT INCLUDES HALL-OF-FAMER KEN GRIFFEY JR.

CHILDREN'S HEALTHCARE OF ATLANTA To highlight the impact of Children's Healthcare of Atlanta in our community, the Braves host an annual Brave Kids series at Truist Park. In 2024, the campaign raised over $236,000 to support Children's mission to provide high-quality pediatric care to the kids in our community. Braves players also regularly visit patients at Children's to bring joy and provide encouragement during their stay.

MAKE-A-WISH Each year, the Braves work alongside Make-A-Wish Georgia to create unforgettable experiences for children facing critical illnesses. James, a 7-year-old cystic fibrosis patient, had his wish to play catch with Ronald Acuña Jr. granted at Spring Training. In April, 14-year-old Joshua returned to Truist Park after being recognized as part of our Brave Kids series in 2023 to fulfill his wish of spending a day with the team. Charlie, an 11-year-old leukemia survivor, wished to meet his favorite Braves players, and that wish was granted when Michael Harris II gave him a pregame tour of the Braves clubhouse. 17-year-old Stephen, also a leukemia survivor, fulfilled his wish to meet the Atlanta Braves by spending time with two of his favorite players, Austin Riley and Matt Olson. Finally, Baylor, an 8-year-old cystic fibrosis patient, had his wish to meet Chipper Jones granted with a surprise meet-and-greet before enjoying a Braves game.

ADOPTION AWARENESS The Braves partner with Georgia Kids Belong (GKB) and Spencer & Maggie Strider to support foster children and families. In 2024, the Striders began Foster Family Fridays by hosting a foster family at each Friday home game. Each family received complimentary game tickets and concessions credit to enjoy a night at the ballpark and spent time with Spencer and Maggie before taking in pregame batting practice from the field. The Braves also continued to be a host for GKB's I Belong Project, which uses high-quality videography to elevate the voices of children in foster care and give them a platform to share their desire for a loving family. In three years, 41 children featured in I Belong Project videos filmed at Truist Park have been matched with adoptive families.

CHILDHOOD CANCER AWARENESS DAY PRESENTED BY RACETRAC

Leveling the Playing Field

BRAVES RBI PRESENTED BY NIKE Braves RBI is a baseball & softball development program that engages youth at all skill levels to learn, grow and play the game to the best of their ability. Braves RBI also serves as an educational and community-focused program to guide young athletes and prepare them for their future on and off the field.

EQUIPPED TO WIN In partnership with Good Sports, the Atlanta Braves Foundation and the Braves' Growing the Game initiative are committed to bringing sports opportunities to youth through the donation of brand-new softball and baseball equipment. Applications are accepted online and are reviewed on a first-come, first-served basis. In its first year, Equipped to Win provided equipment to serve more than 2,200 young athletes.

BRAVES PARK PROJECTS TOGETHER WITH TRUIST The Braves and Truist team up to provide local schools and youth organizations with field improvements and brand-new equipment to level the playing field and increase playability for young athletes across Braves Country. 2024 Braves Park Projects included Griffin High School in Griffin, GA, whose athletic facilities had been previously damaged by a tornado, and Shirley Winston Park, home of Sally Little League in Columbus, GA.

HANK AARON
FELLOWSHIP
Together with TRUIST

HANK AARON FELLOWSHIP PRESENTED BY TRUIST The Hank Aaron Fellowship serves as a platform to welcome and develop the next generation of diverse executive-level sports business leaders. Honoring Heroes

THE WARRIOR ALLIANCE The Braves are proud to partner with The Warrior Alliance (TWA), a veteran service organization that serves veterans and their families during the transition to civilian life. TWA is based in The Battery Atlanta, which enables them to offer veteran & family engagement in a first-class venue and establishes a hub for the Atlanta community to participate in veteran programming.

9/11 MEMORIAL STAIR CLIMB Each year, first responders and family members from across Braves Country climb the stairs at Truist Park in remembrance of the 110 flights of stairs climbed by the FDNY in the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001. Proceeds from this event benefit the Terry Farrell Firefighter's Fund of Georgia, providing funding and support to Georgia firefighters and their families.

BRAVES WARRIOR CLASSIC PRESENTED BY SOUTHWIRE To honor our nation's heroes, the Braves and Southwire invite military veterans to enjoy an exclusive VIP event at Truist Park each fall. In the inaugural Warrior Classic last year, more than 80 veterans were treated to a behind-the-scenes ballpark tour and batting practice on the field with Braves alumni players.

BRAVES DREAM SEATS
Each home game, the Braves provide four complimentary front-row seats to offer a special gameday experience for community heroes including healthcare professionals, first responders, teachers, youth coaches, and more.

CHRIS SALE For his work to serve children, military families, and those impacted by ALS, Chris was named the winner of the 2025 Lou Gehrig Memorial Award, given annually to the Major League Baseball Player who best exemplifies the spirit and character of Lou Gehrig. He was also selected as the Atlanta Braves 2024 Roberto Clemente Award nominee in recognition of his philanthropic efforts. Each month during the season, Chris welcomes deserving fans from groups including Camp Sunshine, TAPS, and more to Truist Park and hosts them in the Atlanta Braves Foundation Community Clubhouse. Chris also plays a key role in Lou Gehrig Day at Truist Park, inspired by his personal connection to ALS after losing his grandmother to the disease.

MATT OLSON Matt and his wife Nicole work closely with ReClif, a fitness-based therapy center designed to empower individuals with autism. ReClif was founded by Matt's childhood friend Reece Blankenship, who is autistic. Each January, the Olsons and ABF host Diamond Casino Night at Truist Park to benefit ReClif Community, and throughout the season, guests with autism who visit Truist Park as part of the Matt Pack are welcomed with a special gift bag and sensory-friendly experience.

OZZIE ALBIES The Ozzie Albies Foundation and ABF host Dog Days of Summer at Truist Park. Belonging in Baseball

HBCUs The Braves are proud to support and honor the contributions of Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs). The Braves will celebrate HBCU Night together with Truist on August 20. Each spring, the Braves also host the Ralph Garr-Bill Lucas HBCU Classic presented by Truist, a weekend series designed to highlight HBCU baseball programs across the Southeast. ABF supports HBCU baseball and softball programs through Homers for Hank together with Truist.

PRIDE The Atlanta Braves are excited to celebrate Pride during the month of June and at Pride Night on June 3 at Truist Park. This special night at the ballpark will highlight the impact of and raise funds to support the LGBTQ+ community in Braves Country. Members of the Braves front office and their families also join local organizations each year to walk in the Atlanta Pride parade.

BRAVES AND THE NATIVE AMERICAN COMMUNITY
The Braves' relationship with the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians (EBCI), the largest federally recognized tribe in our region, dates back almost two decades and has grown over time. Over the last five years, the Braves have developed a cultural working relationship resulting in meaningful action. EBCI Night at Truist Park serves as an acknowledgment and education to Braves fans on the original home of the Cherokee-Qualla Boundary, which spanned 140,000 square miles covering portions of Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee, West Virginia, Virginia, and Kentucky.

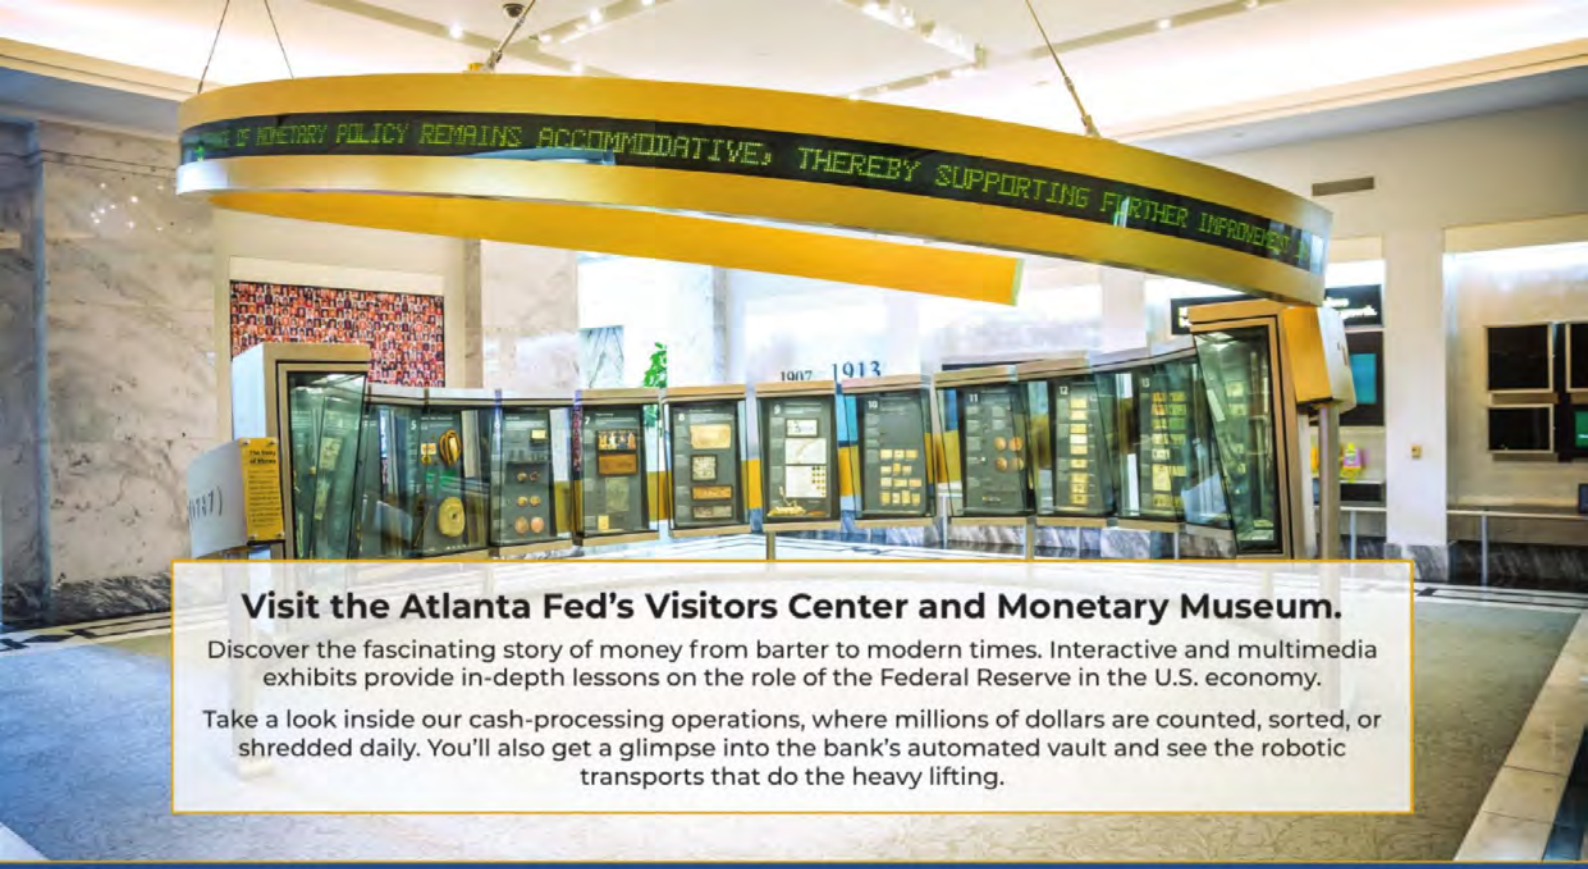
TRUIST PARK WELCOMES A NEW ERA FOR BALLPARK FAN EXPERIENCE

BY KARELY AVILA LEDESMA

Creating the ultimate fan experience the moment people step into Truist Park has been an utmost priority for the Atlanta Braves since opening the ballpark gates in 2017. From special on-field performances to unique food options, one-of-a-kind giveaways, and more, the commitment to innovation and creating memorable moments remains unwavering. This season, the Braves are unveiling state-of-the-art ballpark enhancements guaranteed to elevate and redefine the traditional game-day experience.

THE NEW 30,000 SQUARE FOOT CHILDREN'S HEALTHCARE OF ATLANTA PARK DOUBLES THE SIZE OF THE FORMER HOPE AND WILL'S SANDLOT.

One of the notable updates includes the reimagined and expanded Children's Healthcare of Atlanta Park, crafted specifically for the Braves' youngest fans. In partnership with Children's Healthcare of Atlanta, this new family space has been relocated to the Left Field Plaza and spans over 30,000 square feet. More than doubling the capacity of the former Hope & Will's Sandlot, this new park offers the perfect space for families to explore and try out the array of new features and amenities it offers. Highlights include a massive lawn perfect for play, BLOOPER's Clubhouse where fans can meet and take photos with BLOOPER throughout games, the Hope & Will's Sandlot, featuring a kid-sized scaled replica of Truist Park's field that can be used for both organized and pick-up games, a new kids' zone packed with interactive play experiences such as the fan-favorite rock-climbing tower, and more. The park also features a new 480-square-foot video board on Delta Deck displaying live gameplay for fans to tune in, dedicated concessions, kid-focused merchandise, and other special features, making this a prime destination for families visiting Truist Park.



Visit the Atlanta Fed's Visitors Center and Monetary Museum.

Discover the fascinating story of money from barter to modern times. Interactive and multimedia exhibits provide in-depth lessons on the role of the Federal Reserve in the U.S. economy.

Take a look inside our cash-processing operations, where millions of dollars are counted, sorted, or shredded daily. You'll also get a glimpse into the bank's automated vault and see the robotic transports that do the heavy lifting.

THE OUTFIELD MARKET HOSTS EIGHT FOOD STALLS FILLED WITH NEW CULINARY ITEMS FROM RESTAURANTS FOUND ACROSS BRAVES COUNTRY.

THE CLOSER'S BAR IS A NEW OPEN-AIR BAR LOCATED JUST INSIDE THE CHOP HOUSE GATE.

The Braves added new flavors to Truist Park's vibrant food scene this season with the addition of the Outfield Market. This food hall hosts eight food stalls filled with new culinary items from restaurants found across Braves Country, and new options from Truist Park catering partner Delaware North. Fans can find this new food and beverage spot on the Right Field Concourse, along with a grab-n-go concessions option and communal dining area – all under shaded coverings perfect for those sunny summer days. The space also includes an additional Braves Retail location and a 470-square-foot LED board, ensuring that fans never miss any of the Braves action while grabbing a bite. In addition to the Outfield Market, a new open-air bar branded as the Closer's Bar opened its doors to fans just inside the Chop House Gate. Offering elevated cocktail menu items with rotating signature drinks, this bar displays a beautiful, custom mural adding to the game-day ambiance.

Above the Braves team bullpen is Truist Park's newest seating option, The Pen, located in sections 152-155. The Pen offers an elevated take on group seating with comfortable mesh seats, all-you-can-eat ballpark fare, and a private lounge underneath the seats to mix and mingle. The Braves also expanded the fan-favorite Coors Light Chop House seating, which extends into sections 107 and 108 for additional prime game views. The MLB Speedway Classic Brings Braves Baseball to Tennessee for Historic Game

By Karely Avila Ledesma

Braves Country, start your engines and mark your calendars for a once-in-a-lifetime experience that fans won't want to miss. The 2025 MLB Speedway Classic, presented by BuildSubmarines.com, will uniquely merge Major League Baseball with the electric atmosphere of NASCAR as the Atlanta Braves face off against the Cincinnati Reds at the Bristol Motor Speedway in Bristol, Tennessee on Saturday, August 2, 2025.

For what will be the first-ever Major League Baseball game played in Tennessee, fans will experience this dynamic NL matchup played on a professional baseball diamond installed custom within the Bristol track, as well as enjoy an array of activations throughout the weekend that highlight and tap into the vibrant culture across sports and the region.

This marquee game joins a growing list of MLB games played at non-traditional venues led by Major League Baseball, in collaboration with clubs, to bring fans new gameday experiences and continue to revolutionize the world of baseball. The Bristol Motor Speedway, dubbed The Last Great Colosseum, has been a prime hosting site for many major events across industries for decades. With its location in proximity to both Braves and Reds markets, the MLB Speedway Classic will welcome over 80,000 fans for a truly remarkable mashup.

First pitch is scheduled for 7:00 p.m., and fans can secure tickets online while supplies last. To purchase tickets and find additional information regarding the MLB Speedway Classic, please visit Braves.com/SpeedwayClassic. Fans nationwide can also tune in and catch all the action LIVE on FOX Sports, meaning Braves fans everywhere will have the opportunity to stay connected to this can't-miss game.

Let's play ball, push full throttle, and make history, together. ◆
